

MSc/PhD Students and postdoc positions

Positions are available in a new Technion research group that specializes in computational materials science.

Using computational and theoretical techniques, our goal is to understand and discover new material properties that enable solar energy conversion.

Students interested in chemistry, physics, materials, or chemical/mechanical/electrical engineering may apply.

For details:

Dr. Maytal Caspary-Toroker

Materials Science and Engineering Department

maytalc@tx.technion.ac.il